The wide roll up banner stands are often referred to as "media backdrop" since they are often used as a backdrop in press conferences or in television interviews with sports stars or other celebrities. The wide banner stands like these are also used as backdrops for exhibitions, trade shows, or presentations. They are great for this purpose as they are easily transported - the banner simply retracts back into the base of the unit which then packs away into the carrying bag for transport. The 3-in-1 pole is in sections on a bungee cord and folds away inside the unit when packed. This is a lightweight unit and suitable for indoor use only as exposure to wind would make it unstable.
